On December 4th, 2015, officer Jason Easton of the Aberdeen Police Department was ambushed while responding to a call. He was shot in the face and neck area by buckshot from a shotgun. Multiple pellets hit him, one lodging in his left eye. Although remaining optimistic, at this time the doctors believe that Jason will not gain any sight back in the injured eye.

Jason had remained hopeful that he would be able to return to duty and serve the community he lives in while doing the job he loved. In April he was released from doctors with permission to return to work. Through no fault of his own, he has not been able to return to the Aberdeen Police Department. Since that time, Jason has been receiving no pay, no workman's compensation payments and although he has applied for retirement he is still in the process of appealing a decision to rule his injury non-catastrophic so he can receive the proper amount of retirement funds.

Jason has a wife and four beautiful children. They are active in the community. They attend a local church and are involved with their children's school. They are in need of our support as they navigate through this time of unemployment and an uncertain future. As a community, we will rally around them to give them the help they shouldn't require, but need.
